Auntie Psychiatry says: October 27th 2018 SPB: "To boot there is a gene test which has been around for a long time which predicts the phenotype (strength of enzymes) but nobody in the UK gets this test and few know about it." I've been trying to dig into this - it seems that public awareness in the US is much more advanced, and the American Psychiatric Association is clearly getting nervous.

If you think you've noticed more and more retractions at PLoS ONE recently, you're not wrong. The journal retracted 53 papers last year. That's not a record — that belongs to a journal that retracted more than 400 papers at once — nor is it that many more than the Journal of Biological Chemistry, which retracted 39 last year. And it's only about 3% of the year's retractions.
