I haven't looked at this book in probably 25 years. I uncovered it looking through some little-accessed cabinets at my mother's house. This was a book required for my photography class at Marquette U. in the early '80s, and looking through it again I was surprised at how familiar the images in this book were to me.

Photojournalism is a particular form of journalism (the collecting, editing, and presenting of news material for publication or broadcast) that employs images in order to tell a news story. It is now usually understood to refer only to still images, but in some cases the term also refers to video used in broadcast journalism.
