I bought the 1552 MKII for two reasons, the price, and my prior experience with Rotel products. After a brief listen at my hi-fi dealers shop I purchased the amp along with the matching pre/dac. Since then I've been enjoying them powering a set of Golden Ear Triton 7's. The amp is really all you need and even a bit more.

Has anyone ever heard or had any experience with the Rotel Rb 1552 on the B&W CM 10 S2's? I heard the Ra-12 on a pair of 683's and like the sound of the Rotel, but I didn't get to hear the Rotel on the CM 10's. Im sure the 1552 would sound great on them, but I was just curious if anyone has ever heard it. Thanks!

First i used a rotel rc-1550 which i might say was reasonable. Then stepped up the game with a rotel rc-1590 with dreadfull results. Ive never had a preamp make as much noise as the rc-1590, terrible switching noise, banging cracking , etc. This preamp uses an ic for input switching , (Cheap crap) no relays Sold it after a month.
